Rogue reserve

Rogues are adept at disguise, stealth, and subterfuge. They can go unnoticed in a crowd or be silent and unseen like deadly shadows in a dark cave, as well as in the back alleys of a city. Their combat skills aren't as good as the Warrior's, but they're still capable of defending themselves in a fight, even if they're way more deadly when approaching the enemy by ambush.

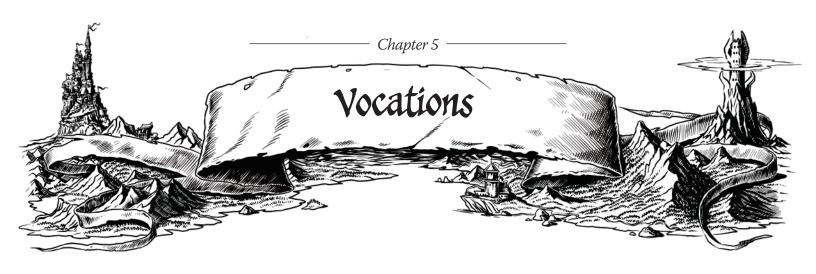

Play a Rogue if you want to be sneaky, subtle, swift, and always a step ahead (or behind!) of any other character.

ach character in Against the Darkmaster has a Vocation, which represents a mix of innate aptitude and specific, intense training. A character's Vocation describes how their apprenticeship and natural inclination influence their starting abilities and also how easy (or difficult) it is for them to develop Skills in various fields of expertise. There are six core Vocations in VsD: Warrior (War), Rogue (Rog), Wizard (Wiz), Animist (Ani), Champion (Cmp), and Dabbler (Dab).

- Vocational Bonuses -

Each Vocation gives a series of fixed bonuses to specific Skills, called Vocational Bonuses. They represent the edge that members of that Vocation have over other characters, thanks to their focused training. These bonuses are applied during character creation, as soon as one's Vocation is chosen.

Please refer to the Vocation Development Points and Vocational Bonuses Table to find out the Vocational Bonuses of each Vocation.

— Vocational Spell Lores -

Vocational Spell Lores are those that characters belonging to a specific Vocation can learn and cast without restrictions, as explained in detail in the Magic and Spells chapter.

- Development Points -

Members of each Vocation gets a certain amount of Development Points (DP) for each Level to distribute between their Skills. Development Points are spent to buy Skill Ranks on a 1:1 basis. A maximum of 2 Skill Ranks can be purchased at each new Level so basically a maximum of 2 Development Points can be spent on a single Skill at each new Level. Development Points can also be set apart and transferred to different Skill Categories. This is made on a 2:1 basis.

For example a character has 2 DPs spare from developing Skills in various Categories, and decides to transfer them to another Category. That character will get to spend 1 point this way in the new Category. This point can be stacked with those already possessed in that Category (e.g. if they already had 3 DPs to spend, they will now have 4).

MAGIC POINTS GAIN PER LEVEL

Characters add this number to their maximum number of Magic Points (MPs) each Level, including first Level (see Magic and Spells chapter for more).

Skill Ranks from other categories can be transferred here on a 2:1 basis from any other category. For example a character who already gains 2 MPs per Level can gain a one-time additional MP by transferring 2 DPs from any other Skill Category.

Example (continued): Nik wants to play a Wizard, so his character will have 1 DP in both Adventuring and Roguery; and 5 DPs in both Lore and Spell Lores; and 0 DP in Armor, Combat, and Body. Since he's a little worried about the Body category, he'll trade 1 DP from the Adventuring Category and 1 from Lore to convert them into 1 point for the Body Category.

He spends the rest of the DPs like this:

Spell Lores works exactly like any other Skill. Being a Wizard, Nik's character has access to all the Spell Lores in the Wizard's Vocational Spell Lores List. Nik invests his 5 DPs to buy two ranks in the Mind Control Spell Lore, one rank in Sounds & Lights, one in Eldritch Frost, and one rank in Eldritch Movements.
